

Join our research community of practice

We are all finding it difficult to adequately support our research students with such uncertainty around the COVID transition back to face-to-face connection in our universities.

Few are thriving; many are merely surviving right now.

Support in an interactive online
environment

To support students who want:

- to speed up their progress
- more support & access to research faculty & award-winning researchers
- to network and bounce ideas off a group of like-minded researchers
- to be proactive, and not reactive about tackling issues

Interactivity

WITH OUR FACULTY

How it works

@Research Central

WEEKLY ACTIVITIES

MASTERCLASSES (1 hour)

Presented by our Faculty. Topics include:

- Managing PhD Expectations
- Mindset Matters
- Tools for Research Productivity
- Why Ethics?

ASK ME ANYTHING AMA (1 hour)

- An opportunity to ask our experienced Faculty anything that you are currently dealing with. Students learn from each other and are encouraged to contribute.
- Additional sessions may be run on demand.

SHUT UP AND WRITE (2 hours)

- A facilitated group writing activity made up of 4 x 25-minute pomodoro sessions to accelerate the writing process on a regular basis.

SELF-PACED RESEARCH COURSES

Presented by our Faculty. Topics include:

- Conducting and Publishing Systematic Literature Reviews
- Interview and Focus Group Techniques
- Qualitative Data Collection
- Data Analysis Using NVivo
- Raising your Research Profile

Why it works

@Research Central

We have created Australia's first purpose-built PhD support structure to help boost research completion rates.

Through our Faculty of award-winning Academics, Research Specialists, and Wellbeing Experts we help researchers navigate their way through their PhD, and boost the quality of their work.

Our work is designed to dramatically increase the completion rate of PhD students. In doing so, we help universities publish more and remain competitive, enabling Australia to maintain its research excellence.

COMMUNITIES

EVENTS

The COVID lockdowns have increased the risk of remote research students falling behind, especially as they can be comparatively disadvantaged in having access to faculty and social resources.

About Adroit Research

At Adroit Research, we have been providing research education, training and mentoring for 20 years. We believe in transparent, rigorous research.

We offer access to research expertise with a positive mindset and support for wellbeing.

Adroit Research is led by Dr Jenine Beekhuyzen OAM who advocates for equity for all. She is Australia's leading independent qualitative researcher and an evidence-based expert on STEM, entrepreneurship, digital inclusion, online communities, and educational design.

Her award-winning work prepares people to be critical thinkers, which we need in the world now more than ever.

As an inspiring leader, she gives a voice to minorities and those experiencing vulnerability.

A bold and daring pioneer with immense integrity, Jenine imagines the world she wants to live in and then creates it.

As the Founder and CEO of Adroit Research and the Tech Girls Movement Foundation, she is a highly sought after professional speaker and mentor and a prolific author with her Tech Girls Are Superheroes series of books in every Australian school library. Jenine works with the biggest brands, including Google, Amazon Web Services, Xero, Accenture, TPG Telecom, Deloitte, Blackboard and Salesforce.

@Research Central

A virtual online community with regular content and an ability to interact with other researchers.

Daily research support with access to self-paced learning, experienced Faculty and mentors, regular communication, accountability, and research activities.
